First anime story

LIFE OF BON

—

By: Esteban Andres Garza

INTRODUCTION

To create a compelling Isekai story that combines elements from various arcs, consider blending the following aspects:

1. Redemption Arc:
    - Aspects: Include a character who starts on a dark path due to past mistakes or tragedies. This adds depth and a goal for the character to work towards redemption.
    - Example: The protagonist was a flawed individual in their past life, seeking to make amends in their new world.
2. Independence and Betrayal:
    - Aspects: Introduce a struggle for autonomy and the consequences of betrayal. This creates tension and drives the character's motivation.
    - Example: The protagonist seeks freedom from a controlling figure or society, leading to betrayal and personal growth.
3. Overcoming Adversity:
    - Aspects: Incorporate a clear goal and the journey from being an outcast to achieving success. This resonates with audiences and provides a satisfying arc.
    - Example: The protagonist faces rejection and adversity but strives to achieve a significant goal, like becoming a hero or leader.
4. Personal Growth:
    - Aspects: Focus on the character's evolution from a flawed or troubled individual to a more mature and enlightened person. This adds emotional depth.
    - Example: The protagonist undergoes significant personal growth, learning to accept and improve themselves.

5. Sacrifice for Love:
    - Aspects: Include moments where the character makes significant sacrifices for love or personal relationships. This adds emotional stakes.
    - Example: The protagonist must choose between their goals and the people they care about, making tough decisions that prioritize love.
6. Sacrifice for the Greater Good:
    - Aspects: Introduce conflicts where the character must choose between personal desires and the greater good. This creates moral dilemmas and depth.
    - Example: The protagonist faces a choice between personal happiness and saving the world, leading to a significant sacrifice.
7. Self-Discovery and Identity:
    - Aspects: Explore the character's struggle with identity and self-worth, informed by past experiences. This adds layers to the character's journey.
    - Example: The protagonist discovers their true self and learns to accept and embrace their identity.
8. Hero's Journey:
    - Aspects: Include elements of prophecy, political intrigue, and the transformation from a humble beginning to a leader or hero. This creates an epic feel.
    - Example: The protagonist is destined for greatness but faces numerous challenges and enemies along the way.
9. Tragic Hero:
    - Aspects: Introduce internal and external conflicts that lead to tragedy. This adds darkness and realism to the story.

- Example: The protagonist faces tragedies and must overcome them, often resulting from their flaws or circumstances beyond their control.

10. Coming-of-Age:
    - Aspects: Focus on the character's growth from youth to adulthood, facing challenges and learning valuable lessons. This resonates with audiences.
    - Example: The protagonist evolves from innocence to maturity, learning from mentors and friends along the way.

Combining Elements for a Compelling Isekai Story:

Story Concept: The protagonist, a flawed individual from their past life, is reincarnated into a new world filled with magic and danger. Initially struggling with identity and self-worth, they seek redemption and independence from a controlling figure. Along the way, they face adversity, betrayal, and moral dilemmas, making significant sacrifices for love and the greater good. Through personal growth and self-discovery, they transform from an outcast to a hero, ultimately achieving their goal and finding redemption.

Key Plot Points:

1. Redemption and Identity: The protagonist starts on a dark path, seeking to make amends for past mistakes. They struggle with their identity and self-worth, informed by their past experiences.
2. Independence and Betrayal: The protagonist seeks freedom from a controlling figure, leading to betrayal and personal growth. They must navigate political intrigue and prophecies that hint at their destined greatness.
3. Overcoming Adversity: Facing rejection and adversity, the protagonist strives to achieve a significant goal, like becoming a hero or leader. They learn valuable lessons from mentors and friends, evolving from innocence to maturity.

4. Sacrifice for Love and the Greater Good: The protagonist makes tough decisions that prioritize love and the greater good, often involving significant sacrifices. They face moral dilemmas and internal conflicts that lead to tragedy and growth.
5. Personal Growth and Self-Discovery: Through their journey, the protagonist undergoes significant personal growth, learning to accept and improve themselves. They discover their true self and embrace their identity, transforming from a flawed individual to a more mature and enlightened person.

Series Elements:

- Gradual World-Building: Each volume peels back another layer of Aetheria, from the microcosm of Bon's family to the macrocosm of the entire world.
- Character Development: Bon's character growth is paced in tandem with his expanding awareness, ensuring that readers remain engaged with his personal journey.
- Learning Curve: Bon's learning process about his body, magic, and the world mirrors the reader's experience, creating a shared path of discovery.
- Foreshadowing: Subtle hints and foreshadowed events are sprinkled throughout these early volumes, setting up the larger narrative to be explored in later books.

- Mystery and Intrigue: The unclear motives of an antagonist, as well as the consequences of Bon's choice, create a sense of tension and anticipation for the unfolding story.
- Moral Ambiguity: Bon's journey into darkness and his struggle to find redemption adds a layer of moral ambiguity to the story, making readers question his true nature and intentions.
- Target Categorys: Isakai, seinen, shonen jump

Focus on his family first, need to develop magical/combat abilities to know how strong they are, to know how much they can teach Bon before he leaves to find his mentor. (In case we don't go the noble tradition route)

Focus on his mentor, and how his new mentor helps him grow.

His mana size is big why? Has to be deeper than he trained from a kid.

Mindset pre-reincarnation

" I was only living because it was too much trouble to die. I got up in the morning I went to work. I made dinner and I went to sleep at night suck my body was doing it on a habit. That's how I lived every day of my life. I throw my money away just to kill time to stay away from home, I was hiding from reality because I was the only thing holding me together"

Mindset for difficult times

"

[" I just keep losing I mean, are some people just supposed to lose? For balancing the universe I mean like they're just some people on earth who supposed to be here just to make it easier for the winners like really."

" Resistance is a symptom of the way things are not the way things necessarily should be actual victory belongs to things that simply do not see that push like a broken branch in the river current".] - Atlanta (show by Childish Gambino)

“ I’ve heard this laughter before, the voice of a man I hated to death, no, it’s me i’m laughing at myself..... A dream... I saw a dream. A dream that wouldn’t end. Over and over again, I repeated and corrected every mistake. But before I knew it, I lost count. I died over 100 million times, and yet there was still a place I wanted to reach, a wish I wanted to protect. No matter what, I had to save everyone, and that’s why I took her hand.”

“ Not about being strong I don’t know what he went through. I know it was bad, but also know that you came out the other side because you are strong, but even even when we’re strong mad things are gonna happen we’re gonna make mistakes nobody’s perfect, but we can get better every day. We can get better so whatever you’re dealing with you know whatever whatever comes at we’ll figure out a way to deal with it together.“

“If so powerful you are, why leave” - master yoda

Villain concepts:

“In all the galaxies I’ve traveled All you species are the same, you all think you’re the center of the universe, you have no idea”

“To me, the real question is, why are you all so weak? Why do you such weaklings cling so fiercely to life? How can a creature that falls apart at a touch... say that it wants to be happy you’re suffering is only natural you people are meant to be chewed up.’

“ Now I want you to think as hard as those puny brains of yours can manage have you ever spared a pig or a cow because it begged you for its life”

WHY PEOPLE TURN EVIL:

Dehumanizing thy enemy

A Demon lord who is/was in charge of a labyrinth/dungeon

Situation for MC

- The main character accidentally creates a problem, tries to fix it, and almost gets it all sorted out. But then, something totally unexpected happens, and things get even worse than before they started.
- Create a situation for a character to go through a story arc like Anakin Skywalker, where they start out good but because of things they see could potentially happen. They desperately try to find solutions to prevent that outcome only for them to be the cause of the issue and then because of this, they end up turning evil and then right as they're going to die, they end up being good.
- Create a situation where two characters have to face off against each other, but the catch is that their relationship is like Obi-Wan Kenobi and Anakin Skywalker/Darth Vader and the transition. Where Obi-Wan apologizes to Anakin and finally says goodbye to him in that iconic scene in the Obi-Wan series from Disney or another relationship, you could look at as an example would be Bjorn and Askalad from Vinland where Bjorn and Askalad end up fighting and Askalad kills Bjorn but they have a touching moment where askalad tells him that he is the only friend he's ever had.

- could create a situation where the main character is in a similar situation/predicament that reminds him of something that happened in his previous life that he was ashamed or angry with that he did, and so in this new world in the present, he is furious and disgusted with himself because the MC was thinking about repeating the same mistake.

Future plot (general idea for future story)

Series Title: "Chronicles of Aetheria: The Awakening of Bon"

Life before reincarnation:

Morning Sequence:

- 6 AM alarm blares in a small, cluttered apartment
- Bon stares at ceiling, contemplating the meaninglessness of another day
- Mechanical routine: shower, dress, coffee
- Passes family photos on wall - parents' disappointed faces at his college graduation

- Brief glimpse of childhood photos when they first moved to Japan, when hope still existed

Neighbor Interaction:

- Leaving apartment, shoulders hunched against morning chill
- Aki (8) sitting on steps, struggling with English homework
- “Bon-san! How do you say this word?”
- Brief moment where helping Aki feels genuine, purposeful
- Aki’s mother’s warm smile contrasts sharply with his own family’s disappointment
- This small interaction highlights what his life lacks

Work Day:

- Cramped office cube under fluorescent lights
- Mindless data entry while coworkers chat about families
- Clock-watching: 9:05, 9:06, 9:07…
- Lunch alone, scrolling phone to avoid conversation
- Overheard conversations about promotions, marriages, children
- Each achievement of others emphasizes his own stagnation

Evening Reflection:

- Stops at convenience store
- Buys cheap sake, stands hesitating near register
- Remembers last night’s argument with parents:
- “When will you make something of yourself?”
- “Your cousins all have careers…”
- “We didn’t move to Japan for you to waste your life”

- Finds park bench, drinks alone
- Watches families walking past, feeling invisible

Final Moments:

- Walking home, slightly buzzed
- Street lights casting long shadows
- Sees Aki chasing cat into street
- Truck's headlights
- Split-second where life finally has meaning
- Last thought: "Will they be proud of me now?"

This structure emphasizes:

- The weight of family disappointment
- The contrast between his emptiness and others' fulfillment
- The small moment of light with Aki
- His struggle with purpose and meaning
- The irony that his most meaningful act is his last

Early Life Timeline with Family Crisis:

Ages 0-3:

- Basic development and memory retention
- Forms initial bonds with family
- Elena spends extra time with him during night terrors
- Father begins teaching basic meditation

Ages 4-6:

- Shows magical aptitude
- Begins helping in herb shop
- Strong bond forms with Elena through shop work
- Learns basic healing herb knowledge

Ages 7-8: The Crisis

- Elena contracts illness from rare imported herbs
- Treatment requires expensive Elven medicine from Brynth
- Leon takes dangerous escort missions along trade routes
- Bon starts applying past life knowledge to help shop

Ages 9-10: Resolution Period

- Father returns with cure from Brynth
- Family recovers financially
- Bon's relationship with parents deepens
- Continues training and helping in shop

Ages 11-12:

- Return to "normal" life but changed by experience
- Leading up to major separation event
- Family stronger but more aware of world's dangers
- Bon more prepared for future challenges

This timeline:

- Maintains progression toward age 12 crisis
- Allows for meaningful character development
- Shows family bonds strengthening through adversity

- Sets up father-son relationship that becomes crucial later

Important note: magic can't cure everything

Combat/Magic Structure

Magic System:

1. Domains of Magic:

- Elemental Magic: Control over natural elements such as fire, water, wind, and earth.
- Mystic Magic: This encompasses more intangible magics including divination, mind manipulation, and illusions.

2. Activation of Magic:

- Incantations: Words or chants that catalyze and shape the magical effect.
- Mental Focus: For advanced practitioners, sheer concentration or willpower is sufficient to activate magic.
- Gestures: Hand signs or body movements guide and shape the magic's execution.

3. Tiers of Magical Mastery:

- Novice: Beginners who've just started exploring their magical potential.

- Adept: Individuals who have a good grasp of basic spells and techniques.
- Elite: Practitioners who can execute complex spells and might even start specializing.
- Master: Those who have a deep understanding of their chosen domain and can teach others.
- Grandmaster: Few achieve this, possessing knowledge of rare spells and techniques.
- Archmage: Legends in their own right; their understanding of magic can shape or even redefine magical laws.

Physical Combat System:

- Combat Styles:

1. Blade Dance: This style represents a balanced approach between offense and defense. Techniques include fluid strikes, parries, and quick footwork.
2. Guardian's Vigil: Centered on defense. Practitioners excel at using shields, countering attacks, and outlasting adversaries.
3. Shadow Step: Emphasizes evasion and rapid movements. Practitioners are experts at dodging, using stealth, and exploiting opponent's blind spots.
4. Mountain Stance: Prioritizes powerful strikes. Practitioners use heavy weapons or their fists to deliver dominating blows.

- Tiers of Combat Mastery:
- Novice: Beginners in their chosen style.
- Adept: Those with a foundational understanding and efficient execution of basic techniques.
- Elite: Fighters who can adapt their style to diverse situations.
- Master: Deeply studied individuals, contributing new techniques or refining the existing ones.

- Grandmaster: Renowned practitioners known throughout the land.
- Champion: Legends, representing the pinnacle of achievement within their style.

Battle Aura (Touki):

- Concept: An instinctual protective aura generated around a combatant. Not visible to the naked eye but can be sensed by those attuned to it.
- Function:
- Defense: Reduces the impact of attacks.
- Intimidation: Projected to unnerve opponents.
- Enhancement: Boosts physical attributes momentarily.
- Detection: Sense other Touki, gauging strength and intent.

Characters:

Immediate Family :

World of Eldarion

World Continents of Eldarion

Aldor:

- Description: An ovalish-shaped continent located near the north pole, with a mildly cold climate even during the summer months. It is the third-largest continent in the world.
- Inhabitants: The Sky People have established a single, centralized kingdom on this continent, with their capital city located in the heart of the icy landscapes.
- Brynth:
- Description: A massive continent roughly shaped like Greenland, with a diverse landscape and a temperate climate. It is the second-largest continent in the world.
- Inhabitants: The Elves have a dominant kingdom on Brynth, with their capital city nestled deep within the ancient forests. They share the land with various tribes of Demi-Humans.

Caelum:

- Description: A continent shaped like Australia, with a diverse landscape and a warm climate. It is the fourth-largest continent.
- Inhabitants: The Dwarven kingdom on Caelum is a sprawling, underground metropolis, serving as the center of their craftsmanship and engineering. They share the land with some tribes of Demi-Humans.

Dorwin:

- Description: A continent partly below Brynth and directly to the right of Caelum, shaped like the top half of Africa. It is known for its vast savannas and is the largest continent.
- Inhabitants: Humans have established multiple kingdoms and empires across Dorwin, making it the most politically complex continent. It is the largest landmass and home to the most diverse human cultures and governments.

Eldan:

- Description: A continent located in the northeast, shaped like a peninsula, and known for its mountainous regions and cooler climate. It is the fifth-largest continent.

- Inhabitants: The Demons have a powerful, dark kingdom located in the mountainous regions of Eldan, with their capital city shrouded in perpetual gloom. They share the land with some tribes of Demi-Humans.

Firn:

- Description: A group of smaller islands located far off to the northeast, with diverse ecosystems and a rich marine life. It is the smallest of the continents.
- Inhabitants: The Serenity Archipelago of Firn is a neutral territory, with no single dominant race or kingdom, but rather a diverse array of smaller settlements and outposts.

Kingdoms and Races

Aldor:

- Sky People: Guardians of the skies, skilled navigators, and protectors of their icy territories.

Brynth:

- Elves: Keepers of the forests and guardians of nature, skilled archers, and renowned craftsmen.
- Demi-Humans: Diverse tribes with unique abilities, living in harmony with the Elves.

Caelum:

- Dwarves: Master craftsmen and engineers, living in sprawling underground cities.
- Demi-Humans: Tribes that have adapted to the diverse landscapes, coexisting with the Dwarves.

Dorwin:

- Humans: Multiple kingdoms and empires with various forms of government, from monarchies to republics. The largest and most politically complex continent.

Eldan:

- Demons: Embodiments of chaos and darkness, living in a powerful, dark kingdom.

- Demi-Humans: Tribes that have adapted to the harsh, mountainous regions, coexisting with the Demons.

  Firn:

- Neutral Territory: A diverse array of smaller settlements and outposts, with no single dominant race or kingdom.

Monsters and Legendary Labyrinths/Dungeons

Monsters:

- Regional Variations: Monsters roam different regions based on their environments. For example, ice giants and frost wolves in Aldor, forest spirits and treants in Brynth, fire drakes and sand serpents in Caelum, and shadow beasts and rock golems in Eldan.
- Threat Levels: Monsters vary in threat levels, from common beasts to legendary creatures that require skilled adventurers to defeat.

Legendary Labyrinths/Dungeons:

- Ancient Ruins: Scattered across Eldarion, these labyrinths and dungeons are remnants of the ancient civilization that once thrived on the single continent.
- Challenges: These locations are filled with traps, puzzles, and powerful monsters. Conquering them requires forming parties and utilizing diverse skills.
- Rewards: Successful adventurers can find rare treasures, powerful artifacts, and ancient knowledge.

Adventure Guilds

- Formation:
- Guilds: Adventure guilds are established in major cities and towns across Eldarion. They provide a hub for adventurers to form parties, accept quests, and share information.
- Quests: Guilds offer a variety of quests, from monster hunting and dungeon exploration to escort missions and treasure hunts.
- Structure:

- Ranks: Adventurers are ranked based on their skills and accomplishments, from E to S.
- Support: Guilds provide support in the form of training, equipment, and information.

Governments and Political Structures

Kingdoms and Monarchies:

- Human Kingdoms: Dorwin is home to multiple human kingdoms and empires, each with its own form of government. Monarchies, republics, and city-states coexist, creating a complex political landscape.
- Other Races: The Sky People, Elves, Dwarves, and Demons each have their own centralized kingdoms or tribal societies, with varying forms of governance.
- Underworld and Black Market:
- The Underworld: A shadowy network of criminals, smugglers, and mercenaries operates across Eldarion. They deal in illegal goods, information, and services.
- Black Market: Hidden markets exist in major cities, offering rare and forbidden items. These markets are frequented by those seeking power, wealth, or forbidden knowledge.

Religious Groups

The Church of the Divine Light:

- Beliefs and Practices: The Church of the Divine Light is a major religious group in Eldarion, similar to Christianity but with unique elements. They worship the Divine Light, a benevolent force believed to guide and protect the faithful. The church emphasizes compassion, charity, and the pursuit of knowledge.
- Hierarchy: The church is led by a High Priest or Priestess, supported by a council of bishops and priests. They hold regular services, perform rituals, and offer guidance to their followers.
- Influence: The Church of the Divine Light has a significant influence on the political and social landscape of Eldarion. They often collaborate with the Seers and other powerful groups to maintain peace and order.

Race: Sky People

Appearance: Sky People have a humanoid form with translucent wings that allow them to fly. Their skin is a soft, iridescent hue, and their eyes are a vibrant blue.

Role in Society: Sky People are the guardians of the skies, protecting their territories from aerial threats and maintaining the balance of nature. They are skilled navigators and are often sought after as guides for those traveling across the skies.

Unique Features: Sky People have a strong connection to the wind and can manipulate it to their advantage. They are also known for their musical abilities, with their voices carried across vast distances.

Race: Elves

Appearance: Elves have a slender, graceful form with pointed ears and almond-shaped eyes. Their skin has a soft, earthy tone, and their hair is long and often adorned with flowers or other natural elements.

Role in Society: Elves are the keepers of the forests and the guardians of nature. They are skilled archers and are often called upon to defend their territories from threats. Elves are also renowned for their craftsmanship, particularly in woodworking and metalworking.

Unique Features: Elves have a deep connection to the natural world and can communicate with animals. They are also known for their longevity, with a lifespan much longer than humans.

Race: Dwarves

Appearance: Dwarves have a stocky, sturdy form with thick beards and a penchant for wearing intricate jewelry. Their skin is a deep, earthy tone, and their eyes are a piercing blue or green.

Role in Society: Dwarves are the master craftsmen of the world, renowned for their skill in metalworking, gem-cutting, and engineering. They are often called upon to build fortresses and other structures that require a high degree of craftsmanship.

Unique Features: Dwarves have a strong connection to the Earth and are often found living in underground cities. They are also known for their love of ale and their ability to hold their liquor.

Race: Demi-Humans

Appearance: Demi-Humans can take on many different forms, with some resembling humans but with unique features such as animal ears or tails. Their skin tones and eye colors vary widely.

Role in Society: Demi-humans are a diverse group with a wide range of abilities and skills. Some are skilled warriors, while others are talented musicians or healers. They are often found living in small communities, but some also integrate into human society.

Unique Features: Demi-Humans have a strong connection to their animalistic features, which can sometimes manifest in their behavior or abilities. They are also known for their adaptability and resilience.

Race: Demons

Appearance: Demons have a wide range of appearances, from humanoid forms with horns and tails to more abstract shapes like clouds of smoke or swarms of insects. Their skin tones and eye colors vary widely, and some have wings or other flight abilities.

Role in Society: Demons are often seen as the embodiment of chaos and destruction, but some are also sought after for their magical abilities or their knowledge of the arcane. They are often found living in the darker corners of the world, away from human settlements.

Unique Features: Demons have a strong connection to the powers of darkness and chaos, and some can manipulate these forces to their advantage. They are also known for their cunning and their ability to shape-shift.

The 10 Great Monarchs: ranked by strength

1. Morgath, the Deathlord
2. Zane, the Blade King
3. Talia, the Aura Mistress
4. Rhys, the Mountain Lord
5. Aria, the Elemental Queen
6. Elysia, the Mystic Seer
7. Kael, the War Master

8. Lirien, the Guardian Knight
9. Soren, the Nature Sage
10. Niamh, the Shadow Warden

Eldarion Lore